The Cub Scout of the Year Award program provides an excellent opportunity to recognize an outstanding Cub Scout and also obtain recognition for your pack's program.

Nomination Process

There are several approaches to selecting your nomination. Some choose a Cub Scout from each den and then choose the overall pack nomination. Some simply choose a single nomination from the pack as a whole. The selection is best made by a special committee, although the pack committee or the Cubmaster and assistant leaders can make the selection. However you proceed with your selection, the process should involve an interview with the boys being considered. In the interview and in making your selection, you should look for:

- ◆ Enthusiasm—genuine interest in and knowledge of Cub Scouting
- ◆ Uniform and general appearance
- ◆ Pleasant personality
- ◆ Politeness and ability to talk with adults for his age and skill level

Once the pack committee has made the selection, complete the nomination form, and submit it to the council service center by the deadline of Friday, January 5, 2018. No late nominations accepted. Do not attach additional sheets; they will not be considered.

Then What?

Put your Cub Scout of the Year nomination into action. This does not need to be an elaborate or time-consuming process, but can contain these types of simple elements:

- ◆ Recognition of the Cub Scout at a pack event
- ◆ A newspaper story with a picture about the Cub Scout in the local paper
- ◆ Involve the Cub Scout in the pack blue and gold banquet
- ◆ Be sure your candidate attends the Marin Council Recognition Dinner along with friends and family to support him

Council Selection Process

All nominees will be interviewed on Thursday, January 25, 2018, by a special panel of the Advancement and Recognition Committee. The panel will consider how the nominees reflect the ideals of Scouting and then make their choice out of all the nominees. The panel's choice will be honored at the annual Marin Council Recognition Dinner.
